Marsden Vision, Mission, Motto and Values

► MARSDEN VISION

“Manu Rere Ao”

The bird that flies the world

Manu Rere Ao likens a Marsden graduate to a bird who is nurtured in the kohanga (nest) and ngahere (forest), then equipped to take on the world. Manu Rere Ao also references the natural setting of Marsden and the native birds and seabirds that inhabit its spaces.

► MARSDEN MISSION

To lay the foundation for lives of meaning, accomplishment and genuine happiness. We develop confident, independent, creative, lifelong learners who are challenged to reach their academic and personal potential in a warm and supportive environment underpinned by Christian values.

► MOTTO

Ad Summa

Aim for the Highest | Whāia te Hiranga

This means that we strive to be our best in all that we do. Our motto reminds us of our commitment to personal excellence, being our best rather than being the best.

► VALUES

Hiranga Excellence

Marsden School is a high-performance environment where everyone aspires to be the best they can be in their academic and co-curricular pursuits.

Manahau Resilience

Our programmes focus explicitly on building resilience, knowing we can pick ourselves up and keep going, giving ourselves the greatest chance of personal happiness and success.

Auahatanga Creativity

We have the ability to think outside the square, to respond to the challenges of today in innovative ways, to find new ways of working, thinking and living to create a successful future.

Oha Service

Our students know their place in the local and global community. They will honour the Anglican values and traditions of caring and having consideration for others as fostered and delivered through all our co-curricular programmes.

Whanaungatanga Respectful Relationships

We will form and forge reciprocally respectful relationships, where a sense of belonging is nurtured through shared experiences and working positively together as one Marsden family.

School Hours

Our school buildings are unlocked at 7.30am and locked again at 5pm from Monday to Thursday and 4pm on Friday. Students from Years 7 to 13 are welcome indoors between these hours.

An exception to this is the iCentre, where students from Years 10 to 13 are welcome to study until 6pm Monday to Thursday. The iCentre is the only space available for study outside classroom hours, with the exception of the Common Room, which is available to seniors until 5pm Monday to Thursday.

Entry to any school building outside these times must be by prior arrangement and adult supervision must be on hand.

Of course there are many early morning, evening and weekend coaching sessions, practices and events. Students are welcome inside the designated building when staff and/or coaches are on site. For reasons of personal safety, however, we cannot have students inside school buildings without supervision. It is essential that we know who is on site at any given time.

The school day runs from 8.25am–3.25pm. Period 1 lessons begin at 8.35am

Guidance and Pastoral Care system

A strong commitment to an effective school-wide system of care for students is part of the special character and philosophy of Marsden. Your hauora/wellbeing is of utmost importance to us.

As well as your teachers, there is a team dedicated to your personal welfare and helping you manage the busyness of day to day life, deal with issues and concerns as well as help you make plans for your future.

The Deans and Hauora Team

See the names of your Deans and the Support Team on page 6. The School Chaplain, Sarah King, the school nurse, and our school counsellors are also here to support you.

Their aim is to assist you in your personal development which includes:

- encouraging you to enjoy success
- encouraging self-confidence, self-esteem and helping you feeling good about yourself
- helping you to develop a sense of responsibility for your actions
- helping you to develop an attitude of care, concern and Christian responsibility towards others.

Your Dean knows you well and is always prepared to listen to you. Beyond your form teacher or tutor, they may be the first person you go to for help or advice with your academic or co-curricular programme, personal matters or any stress-related problems.

Depending on the area of concern, they may either counsel you themselves or refer you to other specialists, such as teachers, Heads of Department, Careers & Pathways Advisor, Counsellor, Nurse, Dean, Head of School.

Confidentiality is most important and would only be broken if your safety or the safety of someone else is at risk or if you give permission.

Hauora/Wellbeing

“Tukua kia tū takitahi ngā whetū o te rangi.”
 Let each star in the sky shine its own light

Our approach to hauora is school-wide and embedded in everything we do. We want Marsden students to be empowered and equipped for lives of purpose and meaning. Therefore, we strive to help you recognise your own worth and to place value in living well.

To achieve this, we have created Awhi, our tailored wellbeing education programme. In te reo Maori, Awhi means to nurture, care for, embrace, and cherish. Grounded in our school values, wellbeing education at Marsden is intentional and specifically designed to best nurture you as you grow with us.

Co-Curricular Activities

There are so many ways you can involve yourself in the co-curricular life at Marsden. We pride ourselves on the fact that Marsden has one of the highest participation rates in sport of any school in Wellington and, as well as that, there are many ways you can take up performing arts activities as well.

We encourage everyone to get involved in a summer and winter sporting activity. It's a great way of keeping active and of mixing with a range of students from across the school. Sporting and performing arts activities require practice and you need to make sure that you commit to attending practices and rehearsals. It is disrespectful to your team mates or performance group not to be there. We encourage you to have fun, try something new and give your best. Discuss with your parents what your involvement is going to be this year – because you may need their support for attendance at games, rehearsals and practices.

Full information on all the available co-curricular options can be found online at www.marsden.school.nz/our-schools/cocurricular

Performing arts activities

Our performing arts programme is a great platform for building confidence, nurturing creativity and encouraging curiosity. From music and drama to debating and performance, these activities are a rich part of school life and our community. There are specialist teachers if you want to try your hand or develop expertise with a musical instrument, singing or speech and drama. Enjoy the power and camaraderie of performance and sign up!

Sport

Marsden enjoys fantastic success in sport – both regionally and nationally. It's a big part of who we are. We offer a great range of sports so there should be something to suit everyone, at every level. Whichever sport you choose, we have the team and the resources to make sure you can get out there and achieve your personal best. Our Director of Sport, alongside specialist coaches and staff, play key roles in helping you to achieve your best as a sportsperson.

Uniform

The uniform identifies you as a Marsden student. Wear it with pride and be aware that you represent your school when seen in public in your Marsden uniform. The personal appearance of all Marsden students should always be of the highest standard.

I will not wear my scarf at formal events (such as assemblies) or in areas where it may pose a health and safety risk, including Science labs, Art rooms and Technology classes. I will not wear my scarf around my face at any time. I understand that if I wear my scarf inappropriately, any staff member may instruct me to remove it at any time. Students in Years 10-13 will store their silent phones in their lockers or school bags during the day. Phones should not be seen or be out during break times in the hallways or main school areas.

Phones can be used during class time ONLY when directed. This use will be task driven and aligned to specific learning outcomes.

If students in Years 10-13 need support with self-management in class, teachers will store phones on the teacher desk for the duration of the lesson and speak to them about our mobile phone policy at the end of the lesson.

If a phone is taken off a student in the interval and lunchtime breaks, teachers will bring the phone to the Head of School and students will pick them up at the end of the school day.

If self-management continues to be a problem, we will contact home. This may include phones being stored at Reception or with the Head of School and collected at the end of the school day.

Bullying and Harassment

All students and staff have the right to learn, work and play in an environment free from bullying and harassment. Any form of bullying or harassment is unacceptable at Marsden and will be dealt with in accordance with Marsden's 'Bullying and Harassment' policy.

Students are not to take part in any form of bullying or harassment. Bullying and harassment can take a number of forms not exclusive to but including:

- physical e.g. hitting, kicking, taking of belongings, extortion, intimidation through threats or gestures
- verbal e.g. name calling, insulting, sexist or racist remarks
- indirect/emotional bullying e.g. spreading rumours, publishing offensive, humiliating, threatening, vulgar, sexist or racist material on web sites, social media or text
- sexual (unwelcome attention of a sexual nature).

Cyber bullying

Cyber bullying will not be tolerated. Do not send emails or post comments that could scare, shame, hurt, or intimidate someone else. Engaging in these behaviours, or any online activity that can harm (physically or emotionally) another person, is not acceptable. The school takes cyber bullying seriously. Cyber bullying may be considered a crime and must be reported to Senior Management.

Cyber bullying and harassment can include:

- sending abusive texts or emails
- posting negative or inappropriate images on social media sites
- taking and sharing private images
- forming bullying groups on social networking sites
- assuming the identity of a target online and representing them in a way that may be harmful to them or cause them distress
- posting abusive comments via social media e.g. Facebook, Snapchat, Instagram.

Cyber Safety

The technology available today for you to be globally connected and communicate whenever you like, with whoever you like, is amazing. You are the 'NOW' generation.

While there are wonderful opportunities on offer, there is also a dark side to technology use that can have a threatening impact on your life.

- As you or your friends may have already experienced, there are people out there in cyberspace who can make life hard by anonymously bullying you, stalking you, sending you pictures and messages which are inappropriate.
- If you are bullied online, tell a parent, teacher or someone who can help you sort it out.
- Keep yourself cyber safe.

Try these things – they work:

- Firstly, be open and sit down with your parent/s or caregiver/s and together come up with an agreed set of cyber behaviours that you can all live with. This should include telling them about cyber problems that you have.
- Always use profile private to ensure only friends you wish to see what you have posted can see it.
- Don't reply to any bullying or sexually suggestive messages that you receive but share them with your parents and/or teachers. The police can trace them and stop the senders.
- Only welcome contacts into your networks that you know and trust. It is easy for anyone to create fake identities.
- Put blocks on people you do not wish to receive messages from.
- Don't share your username and password with anyone.
- Protect your identity by not putting your personal details, mobile/home phone numbers, address, sporting clubs, school, named photos online. You can be easily traced through the WhitePages and Google Earth. Once people have your identity description they may be able to access your bank details and accounts.
- Cyber safety has become one of the biggest issues confronting teenagers today – don't become a bully yourself by setting up fake websites; you don't like it so don't do it to others.
- Don't use your webcam or mobile to take sexually suggestive photos or videos of yourself or others, sexting can be illegal. You don't know who will see them, so don't post them on your network or Bluetooth them to friends.
- It can seriously damage your reputation in the future when you apply for jobs if you put sexually suggestive photos or videos of yourself on your social media sites, because employers are now checking people on these sites.
- Be aware not to send on chain letters or accept free ring tones even when threatened to by the sender – your address can be on sold to anyone.
- Be aware of online gaming because you don't know with whom you are playing, and leaving a game may target you for cyber bullying because you let the team down.
- Make your parents/caregivers your Facebook friends/Instagram followers; if you can't share your post with them, don't post it.

Marsden offers access to the internet to all pupils who have indicated they have read, understood and agree with the Student Technology Acceptable Use Agreement. This is below and also available here <https://www.marsden.school.nz/enrolments/terms-and-conditions>

You are required to abide by the guidelines and the information. If you breach any conditions there may be serious consequences. You will be asked to sign this Agreement each year.

Years 7–13 Student Technology Acceptable Use Agreement

I understand my school provides technology tools for me to use to support my schoolwork and my communication with others (including my peers, teachers and parents) about my learning. I understand the school allows me to use my own technology to support my learning.

- I will always aim for the highest standard possible in all the ways I use technology and communicate online.
- I will always think critically, creatively and reflectively about the material that I contribute online, about the way I share it and with whom I share it.
- I will respect others opinions, beliefs and ideas in online communication and I will be fair and honest in what I say and do online.
- I will be responsible and accountable in what I say and do online.
- I will act ethically online.
- I will help others to act in a responsible, ethical way in the use of technology.

I understand that if I do not use technology in a responsible and ethical manner, I will be held accountable for my actions and may lose access to school technology or face other consequences.

Science Department Safety Procedures

The purpose of these safety procedures is to ensure the safety of all members of the school and the security of school property and equipment.

Management

- The most important rule is to ensure the safety of yourself, others and the equipment
- Follow all instructions and ask for help if you are unsure (prevent accidents)
- Only touch equipment and carry out practical activities when asked to do so
- Science staff are trained in first aid and emergency procedures

What to bring (or not)

- Leave all bags, food (including gum & lip gloss) and water bottles outside the lab
- Lab coats and safety glasses are provided for all practical activities (as are masks and gloves when needed e.g. gardening or dissections)
- Hair should be fully tied back and closed-toed shoes worn at all times (including on non-uniform days)

Behaviour

- Only enter a school lab when a teacher (or staff member) is present
- Do not move from your seat when the teacher is talking and be ready to be silent and listen for instructions during all practical activities
- Walk around the lab carefully and sensibly
- Pranks are unacceptable behaviour
- Follow usual Marsden etiquette – bring computer, books and pencil case to every lesson, be on time to class, computers are only used when requested, no phones on in lessons (if permitted), check the Hāpara page for missed lesson content if absent before checking in with teacher, etc.

Practical Activities

- Report all accidents to the teacher immediately
- Practical activities are carried out on the side benches of the lab (written work should remain on main benches so to avoid it being ruined/contaminated)
- Push in chairs and place school blazers on the seat of chairs (rather than hanging on the back) if chemicals are being used (lab coats will be worn)
- Small amounts of chemicals are used (never filling a container e.g. test tube more than $\frac{1}{4}$ full)

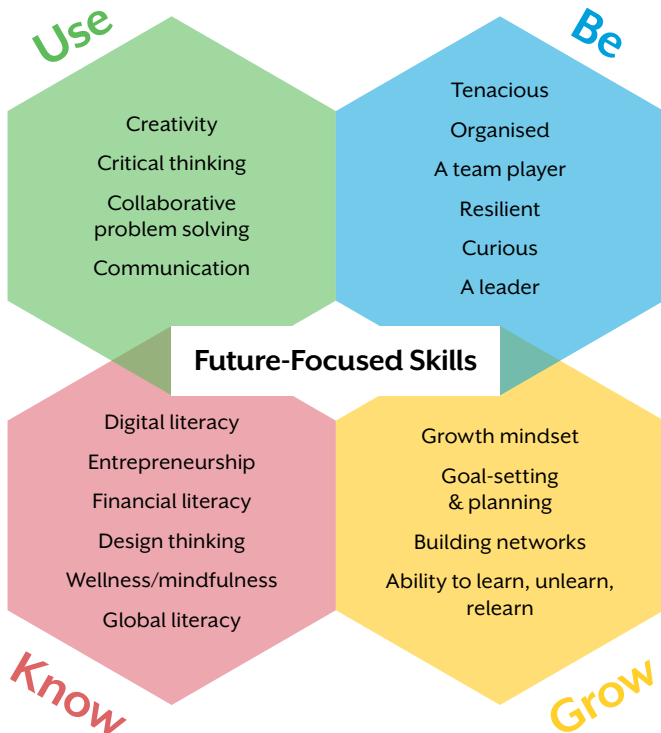

- Spills are cleaned up immediately and broken glass is put into the 'broken glass' bucket
- Chemicals cannot leave the science lab and equipment is not loaned to students for home use
- Hand washing is recommended at the end of any practical lesson, and mandatory after using chemicals, dissections, gardening etc.
- Practise good 'house-keeping' – put lids back on bottles, keep glassware away from bench edges, recycle when you can, avoid unnecessary waste, packing away as you go, wiping up any spills and leaving the bench clear and tidy once finished
- Specialist science equipment for example: Bunsen burners, thermometers, microscopes, Epro8 kits, electrical equipment etc. has special rules applying that will be explained by the Science teacher when you come to use it

Emergencies

- Any uncontrolled fire results in lab evacuation (although fire extinguishers and sand buckets are also available for teacher use)
- Every lab has first aid kits and eye washing stations and also electricity and gas isolation switches for emergency use

Study tips

Index Subsystem

Here is a method of studying that gives you an accurate perception of how well you know the material, and forces you to think about it, rather than just look over it.

- Review your notes and readings frequently so the “material” is fresh.
- As you’re reading your text or reviewing your notes, generate and write down questions about the material. Imagine you’re teaching the course. What questions would you ask in the exam?
- Keep track of any terms you don’t know.
- Write each question or term on the back of an index card.
- On the front of each index card, write an answer or an explanation for the question or term on the back. Use your notes and text for a reference, but put the answer or explanation in your own words wherever possible.
- Shuffle the index cards (so you can’t figure out any answers based on their location in the deck).
- Look at the card on the top of the deck: Try to answer the question or explain the term. If you know it, great! Put it on the bottom of the deck. If you don’t know it, look at the answer, and put it a few cards down in the deck (so you’ll come back to it soon).
- Proceed through the deck of cards until you know all of the information.

Some Tips

- Carry your cards with you everywhere. Take advantage of little pockets of time. Test yourself while you’re waiting in line, riding the bus, etc.
- If you think you know an answer, but can’t put it into words, you probably don’t know it well enough. Being able to explain the information is the only way to be sure that you know it. It’s also the best way to prevent test anxiety.
- Consider testing yourself someplace where nobody can see you and reciting the answers out loud. That’s the best way to be sure that you can explain them.
- Study with a friend from your class. You can share ideas and help each other out with concepts. Also, you can use each other to make sure that you’re explaining your answers adequately.

Homework at Marsden

Homework is integral to learning at Marsden. For students at all levels, homework helps develop good habits of self-management and independent thinking. It is an opportunity to reflect on and consolidate learning from the classroom, extend thinking, practise skills, create and explore. The connection between homework and classroom learning should always be meaningful, purposeful and clear to the student. Homework should never be burdensome, ‘busy’ work.

Guidelines

It is difficult to set exactly how much time should be dedicated to homework at each year level, as time required depends on the task and can be variable. As a general rule, there is no expectation that work is completed overnight, with only 24 hours’ notice. We recognise students have busy lives outside of school.

- Years 7–10 3–5 hrs per week across all subjects is reasonable.
- Year 11 6–8 hrs per week across all subjects is reasonable.
- Years 12–13 8–10 hrs per week across all subjects is reasonable.

Years 7–10

Record your homework in your personal diary.

Let your teacher know early if you will have any problem meeting deadlines.

Complete long term assignments in small chunks – don’t leave it all to the last minute.

Multiple hours spent on homework, over a short period of time, is counter-productive in terms of your wellbeing and the quality of your output.

Homework is satisfying when you have some independence and opportunity to discover more for yourselves.

Homework is less satisfying when it is repetitive or without a clear goal.

Reading is always valid homework.

Discussion at home, of ideas, topics, themes and concepts connected with school learning, is always valid homework.

Homework checks can include conferencing, peer review, discussion, whole class feedback.

Years 11–13

Students are required to spend more time on homework as they move into the senior school and homework is linked to NCEA assessment. Homework will often be dedicated to internal assessment tasks and you are likely to prioritise this, but there should be some space for other lighter homework.

Quality homework tasks include:

- practising skills (e.g. vocabulary for languages, mathematical procedures, keyboard, writing)
- researching
- reading
- creative thinking and production
- reviewing and organising work done during the day.

Revision forms a significant part of homework, particularly in preparation for tests and exams.

1. Course requirements

It is the school's policy that the majority of students preparing for NCEA Level 1 or 2 will undertake a course of study in six subjects. For Level 3, students are expected to take five subjects. Any entry requirements for specific subjects are outlined in the school Year Programmes. Students seeking an exception to this policy or these requirements must seek approval through the Deputy Principal.

In accordance with the school's policy it is expected that every student will:

- complete all requirements for each course in which she is enrolled
- fulfil all reasonable homework and assignment requirements
- attend classes regularly, as set out in the school policy on attendance.

2. Course Outline and Assessment Programme

Subject information is posted on Hāpara (our online learning management system).

This includes:

- an outline of the course for the year, its aims and objectives
- an overview of learning areas to be covered and an approximate time frame
- an assessment outline detailing:
 - specifications of all NCEA standards to be assessed during the year
 - how internal assessment will be carried out and due dates
 - any further assessment opportunities that will be offered
 - how and when practice assessment towards external standards will occur
 - prerequisites for further study, if relevant.

All Level 1 students will also access learning through Google Classroom for NCEA+ Collabs.

3. Internal Assessment

Due dates

Due dates for internal assessment are advised well in advance and in fairness to all students, must be observed. Students are expected to manage their time effectively. It is not acceptable to miss other classes to complete or prepare for internal assessment. On the date that a 'take home' internal assessment assignment is due, it is to be handed in to the designated subject teacher in a pre-arranged venue before classes commence for the day.

Students may apply for an extension by using this approval form.

4. Misses and Late Assessments

Circumstances may occur which are beyond the student's control, when she is unable to be present for an internal assessment or has not been able to complete internal assessment by the due date. Legitimate absences include illness, family distress (e.g. bereavement) and school-approved trips. Information on how such situations are dealt with is outlined on the next three pages.

Illness

Where a student is ill on the date an assignment is due, it is the responsibility of the student to ensure that the assignment is delivered to the school on that day or submitted on Hāpara. Students or their caregivers should phone the school and advise when the assignment will arrive at the office.

When a student is unable to attend school for internal assessment because of illness and requests assessment on another date, a medical certificate stating that the student is sufficiently unwell to present herself for assessment may be required. Contact must be made with the Deputy Principal to determine whether this is feasible.

Where illness has prevented a student from meeting a deadline or preparing for assessment, a medical certificate may also be required. Parents must make contact with the Deputy Principal on or before the due date to determine this.

Family distress

A phone call from a parent to the Head of School to explain the problem is required. Such information will be confidential.

School trips

If a student knows that she is going to be out of school on a field trip, sports trip or other school approved outing when an assessment is due, she should notify the teacher in advance to discuss how assessment will be managed. Please see the Hāpara page 'All things NCEA' for an extension form if required and send this to the Deputy Principal for approval.

Self-interest leave

No special arrangements are made to extend deadlines or withdraw students from standards when students take self-interest leave (for example, a family holiday).

Non-completion of work

Students who fail to complete or submit work for internal assessment without evidence of a legitimate absence or prior approval from the Deputy Principal will be awarded a Not Achieved grade.

Catching up on missed assessment

On her return to school following a verified, legitimate absence, a student will be given, where practicable, any assessment that she may have missed or an extension to complete assignment work by an agreed date. In situations other than illness, an extension may be granted at the discretion of the Deputy Principal. Please be advised that such extensions are only granted in exceptional circumstances. All assessment that occurs outside the set dates must be negotiated through the Deputy Principal. In some instances, it may be impractical for students with legitimate absences to be assessed for a particular standard.

Resubmissions

It is up to each department to decide whether it is practical and/or manageable to offer a resubmission. Resubmissions can only be applied to shift an assessment result from Not Achieved to Achieved. Subject outlines will make it clear how evidence is collected and whether further opportunities are available.

Electronic mishaps

Students need to be aware that electronic mishaps are not a legitimate excuse for missed deadlines. All students are required to save assignment work for assessment in the Cloud – i.e. using Google Docs or other cloud-based storage.

Special conditions

Assistance is available for students who need special conditions for internal and external assessment, and who have been identified as meeting the necessary criteria. If you believe you are eligible for special assessment conditions and these have not been discussed, please talk to the Deputy Principal.

5. Academic Authenticity

All students are required to sign an academic authenticity assessment sheet when handing in NCEA assessments.

Each student is encouraged to read around the topic she is preparing for assessment, discuss ideas and seek advice. This is a valuable part of the learning process. However, a student's own work is based on her own experiences, research and reading; it changes the words, forms and ideas of other people in some significant way. By handing in a piece of work for assessment, a student is claiming that the work is her own. Unless group work is part of the assessment, students should complete their assessment tasks independently. Where students submit collaborative work for individual assessment a Not Achieved grade will be awarded.

A student who submits work for assessment that she has not written or produced herself is guilty of plagiarism. This is a serious offence in any academic or publishing environment. Plagiarism means presenting someone else's work (words, ideas, or information) as your own.

This could look like:

- copying off the internet or a friend (even if you then put it into your own words);
- taking passages from multiple sources, piecing them together, and turning in the work as your own; or
- using AI like ChatGPT, Character.ai or Snapchat's My AI to generate your work.

Please see the Academic Authenticity Plagiarism Policy (found on the 'All things NCEA' Hāpara page) for further information.

ChatGTP information and rules of use for students

AI Language Models (AILMs) are tools that are being developed to make our lives easier; however, they do not replace the need to learn how to think or write. They also should not be considered knowledge bases. AILMs know how to produce language in a way that sounds like it knows what it is talking about, but it is also often wrong. AILMs are not a primary source of information.

When using AILMs, ask yourself: Would a teacher say yes to me?

If you ask AI to give you feedback on your work, your teacher should always see your authentic work first. If you are unsure whether you should use ChatGPT or another AILM to support you in your work, you should check with your subject teacher or assume the answer is no.

You might experiment with AILMs yourself to understand the strengths and limitations of their capabilities, but do not use them to produce internal assessments or other assignments, and do not assume they are always right. If a teacher would say yes, you can probably ask AI.

How to avoid plagiarism

- Always use the document you are provided in Hāpara for your work so that your work history can be seen.
- Include an appropriate bibliography. Information on how to write a bibliography can be found on the iCentre Resources home page. Work that directly quotes or copies the ideas, words or forms of another person must be properly acknowledged and attributed to that person.
- If in doubt, check with a teacher before the task is completed whether an intended form of assistance is appropriate for a particular assessment task.
- State the contribution of all group members when more than one person is involved in group assessments.
- Keep plans, drafts, worksheets or logbooks used when items of work are produced over an extended period (i.e. longer than two weeks).

In exams or under test conditions, it is essential that a student's work can be verified as her own.

If the authenticity of a student's work is called into question, the matter will be referred to the HOD and the student will be asked to explain how they created the assignment. The student may choose to discuss the matter with the Deputy Principal. In most circumstances, it is probable that a Not achieved grade will be awarded.

6. External Assessment Derived Grades

Where a student is unable to sit an external examination or her performance is adversely affected because of illness or other personal misfortune, assessment may occur through derived grades. In this case the school is asked to provide evidence of that student's achievement based on practice assessment towards the standard. Where students have not completed those practice standards, an award may not be possible.

Conduct in external examinations

During the year, the teachers at Marsden will ensure that students are familiar with the regulations that govern external assessment and that school examinations are conducted under NZQA conditions. This will ensure that everyone is familiar with the appropriate procedures. Students who breach NZQA regulations during external assessment are liable to have their results declared invalid.

7. Keeping records

NCEA results are uploaded to the NZQA website at intervals throughout the year. Students can track their progress through the Marsden Portal.

Confidentiality

Student results are confidential to the student concerned.

8. Appeals

Students should sign to confirm their acceptance of each internal assessment result. If a student disputes any grade, it is her right to:

- discuss it with the teacher and query the grade at the time the work is returned
- query the grade with the HOD or Deputy Principal if she is still not satisfied
- request that the work be re-assessed by completing an Appeal form (found on the 'All things NCEA' Hāpara page) and lodging it with the Deputy Principal within a week of the work being returned.

9. Reporting/Feedback on Student Progress

Students and their parents receive regular reports, both verbal and written, during the course of the year. At the end of Term 2 reports are issued, giving results for any internal standards completed and any practice results for external standards.

Comments will acknowledge successes and identify any areas of concern. Learning Progress Interviews follow on from these reports.

During Term 4 a summary of grades and a recommended exam study programme is issued to all NCEA candidates. Students are welcome to discuss their goals or any concerns about their academic progress with their tutor and/or Dean.

NZQA website

www.nzqa.govt.nz/ncea

On this website students may view:

- ▶ assessment specifications for all standards
- ▶ previous years' examination papers for external standards
- ▶ the current NCEA examination timetable.

Students will be given their NSN (National Student Number) towards the end of Term 2. This is their number for all subsequent NCEA assessment. Students may use their NSN to log into the NZQA website and access their entry details, examination results (in late January) and their Record of Learning.

Students and parents/caregivers will be asked to sign an acknowledgement that they have read and understood the NCEA assessment policy via the Marsden Portal.

Scholars' Awards

At Marsden, we hold a Scholars' Assembly each year to acknowledge the success of students who have achieved outstanding academic results in their qualifications in the previous year. There are two levels of award: School colours and school badges. You can check the criteria on the Marsden website at <https://www.marsden.school.nz/our-schools/senior-school/academic-y11-13/awards/scholars-awards-criteria>

Presenting at Assembly

Throughout your years at Marsden, it is quite possible that, at some point, you will have the opportunity to speak at Assembly. This is a great way of developing your confidence and sharing experiences with the school. There are some important things to consider: if you have a Powerpoint, Google slides or a video to show, please email/share it to assembly@marsden.school.nz at least 24 hours before you are presenting. It takes time to collate everyone's presentations for the Assembly. It shows a lack of consideration, on your part, to leave it to the last minute.

When addressing the audience at assembly, you should use a greeting in Māori (such as 'morena', 'kia ora') or 'good morning', but not casual slang, such as 'Hey guys'. It is not appropriate.

Discussing and responding to sensitive issues at Marsden

Issues such as race, gender equity, religion and politics are important to discuss and can often cause strong feelings. At Marsden, we believe it is important to examine all topics and issues with a listening mind. Some of our learning contexts may be deemed controversial. In fact, examining controversial topics should be viewed as relevant and necessary to our personal and academic growth.

Many works of culture from past periods of time may use language or ideas that we would question in today's world. These aspects need to be faced but do not eliminate the substantial value and influence that they have on the art, culture, ethics and morals that we see as being acceptable today. Many of these works have in fact been catalysts for the greater tolerance and the inclusion of diverse cultural and gender perspectives that we aspire to.

We encourage all ākonga to examine their learning with detailed curiosity to expand understanding beyond the limited perspectives offered by social media. Here at Marsden we offer a safe and inclusive environment in which a range of whakaaro (opinions) can be voiced in the pursuit of kotahitanga (collective understanding). We can achieve this through:

- inquiry: asking questions as a way into any story
- critical thinking: being analytical and sceptical readers of text and media by finding the true source of information

- empathising: learning about humanity from a story, the news, history, an experiment
- honouring multiple perspectives: hearing, reading and making meaning of multiple voices.

Being a Buddy

When you're asked to buddy a new student, you've been given a compliment. Not everyone can do this job well; it takes commitment, and we think you can do it!

A good buddy will think back to when she started at this school... How did she feel on her first day? What were the good and bad things that happened to her? What would she have changed if she could have? You will have lots of ideas about being a buddy. There are important things your buddy will need you to help her with.

Phone your buddy; try and arrange a time to meet with her so that she feels comfortable with you and ready for the first day. Meet your buddy on the first day and take her to your form class. Show her around... her desk, locker, peg etc. During the day give her a tour of the school, including the important places such as:

- toilets – which ones are closest, where are they around the school?
- the nurse
- drinking fountains
- Dean's office
- main reception/vestibule
- dance studio
- Cultural Centre
- cafeteria.

Your buddy needs you to look after her ALL the time for at least a week. Check someone is looking after her during the option classes. Stay with her at break and lunch. Explain the timetable. Where is the room number? Teacher's name? When does she have PE and need her gear?

Show her the map of the school in this Handbook. Has she got the right stationery? Check she knows where the buses leave from and at what time. Make her comfortable and welcome all the time. Thank you!!

School Songs

Marsden has two school songs, which are sung at special assemblies, celebrations and whole school events.

The first is Non Nobis Domine (Not unto us O Lord), a Latin title for a Christian hymn which dates as far back as the 17th Century. The words we sing are by Rudyard Kipling, and they were put to music in 1934 by Roger Quilter. It is the official song of many schools around the world. Our second school song is Hamuera Matene (Samuel Marsden), written in 2017 by Marsden student Araraina Takuira-Mita. It tells of the history of our school and our values and motto.

Non Nobis Domine

*Non Nobis, Domine!
Not unto us, O Lord,
The praise and glory be
Of any deed or word.
For in Thy judgement lies
To crown or bring to nought
All knowledge and device
That we have reached or wrought.*

*And we confess our blame,
How all too high we hold
That noise which we call fame,
That dross which we call gold.
For these we undergo
Our hot and godless days,
But in our souls we know
Not unto us the praise.*

*O Power by whom we live
Creator, Judge and Friend,
Upholdingly forgive,
Nor leave us at the end.
But grant us yet to see,
In all our piteous ways,
Non Nobis, Domine,
Not unto us the praise,
Non Nobis, Non Nobis, Non Nobis Domine.*

Waiata: Hamuera Matene (Samuel Marsden)

*Mai te rohe o Karori, ki Porirua e
E noho ana ngā tauira o Hamuera Matene
Kotahi mano, waru rau, whitu tekau ma waru e, i whakatū te kura kohine a te mihinare.*

Korihi (Chorus)

*Tū tonu Hamuera Matene, whaia te hiranga o ngā raukura
Kapo mai i ngā matauranga mo tou kete hauora
Kia tū kaha ki te ao huri e, huri nei
Tū tonu Hamuera Matene, anei te ope o te kura kohine no Karori e
Ngā pūmanawa e ono, ko ngā whare hapu e
Ma te mana rangatira, koutou e taki e*

Kaea – Karanga mai rā (Call of welcome)

*Ko Richmond, ko Baber, Hadfield-Beere
Ko Jellicoe, ko Johnson, Swainson-Riddiford
Tū tonu Hamuera Matene, anei te ope o te kura kohine no Karori e (x2)*

(Araraina Takuirā-Mita, 2017)

See our video, showing you the actions to and correct pronunciation of our school waiata, here.

Translation:

From the region of Karori to Porirua –

This is the base for the two schools and their communities.

1878: the year this school was established in honour of the Anglican preacher Samuel Marsden

Take hold of these treasures that are taught to you and store them within yourself for your well-being and health.

So you can stand strong and independent in this evolving world.

Chorus

Here stands the combined old girls, and former students of Samuel Marsden from Karori.

The six beating hearts of the school that keep it alive spiritually are represented by houses, hapu.

All named after legendary people and they may lead you OR your house captains may lead you, through whatever challenge the school throws at you.

There is Richmond, Baber, Hadfield-Beere.

There is Jellicoe, Johnson and Swainson-Riddiford.

Goals

Developing, daily, weekly, yearly and even longer-term goals are important for everyone. Setting goals now can help you manage your life better today. You can use your goal setting template on your Hāpara Awhi page and the NCEA+ Google Calendars to keep track of your short-term goals. You might like to set out longer-term goals for each term on the goal-setting pages in this handbook. Take time at the beginning of each term to establish some goals for yourself – goals related to your learning, wellbeing, co-curricular aspirations, personal resolutions or friendship commitments.

- Be realistic. Make sure your goals are attainable.
- Prioritise your goals.
- Be specific. Make sure your goals are measurable.
- Establish a plan to achieve your goals. Tackle one step at a time. Remain flexible.
- Set time limits. This will force you to act.
- Go for it! Be persistent, be confident.
- Reward yourself upon completion.

Decisions

Your goals are now set. How will you achieve them? The establishment of a plan of action involves decision-making. A well-balanced plan of action will help you to succeed in attaining your goals. Here are some guidelines which you can follow in making decisions leading to the establishment of your personal plan of action:

- Have a clear mental picture of the goal.
- Identify and assess the resources as well as the constraints in achieving your goal.
- Identify the alternative routes and opportunities available to you in reaching your goal.
- Identify the consequences of the various alternative routes open to you.
- Make your decision.
- Implement your action plan.
- Evaluate whether the goal has in fact been reached.
